Description of Our Services

We offer wrap fee programs as described in this Wrap Fee Program Brochure. Our wrap fee accounts are managed on an individualized basis according to the client's investment objectives, financial goals, risk tolerance, etc.

Types of Advisory Services

We offer the following services:

Investment and Wealth Management Services

Conscious Capital typically manages client investment portfolios on a discretionary basis. In addition, Conscious Capital may provide clients with wealth management services which may include a broad range of comprehensive financial planning and consulting services as well as discretionary and/or non-discretionary management of investment portfolios.

Conscious Capital primarily allocates client assets among various mutual funds, exchange-traded funds ("ETFs"), individual debt and equity securities, options, and independent investment managers ("Independent Managers") in accordance with their stated investment objectives.

Where appropriate, the Firm may also provide advice about any type of legacy position or other investment held in clients' portfolios. Clients may engage Conscious Capital to manage and/or advise on certain investment products that are not maintained at their primary custodian, such as variable life insurance and annuity contracts, assets held in employer sponsored retirement plans, and qualified tuition plans (i.e., 529 plans). In these situations, Conscious Capital directs or recommends the allocation of client assets among the various investment options available with the particular plan or product. These assets are generally maintained at the underwriting insurance company or the custodian designated by the product's provider.

Conscious Capital tailors its services to meet the needs of its individual clients and seeks to ensure, on a continuous basis, that client portfolios are managed in a manner that is consistent with those needs and objectives. Conscious Capital consults with clients on an initial and ongoing basis to assess their specific risk tolerance, time horizon, liquidity constraints and other related factors relevant to the management of their portfolios. Clients are advised to promptly notify Conscious Capital if there are changes in their financial situation or if they wish to place any limitations on the management of their portfolios. Clients may impose reasonable restrictions or mandates on the management of their accounts if Conscious Capital determines, in its sole discretion, the conditions would not prove overly burdensome to the Firm's management efforts. Our Wealth Management Service encompasses asset management as well as providing financial planning/financial consulting to clients. It is designed to assist clients in meeting their financial goals through the use of financial investments. We conduct at least one, but sometimes more than one meeting (in person if possible, otherwise via telephone conference) with clients in order to understand their current financial situation, existing resources, financial goals, and tolerance for risk. Based on what we learn, we propose an investment approach to the client. We may propose an investment portfolio, consisting of exchange traded funds, mutual funds, individual stocks or bonds, or other securities. Upon the client's agreement to the proposed investment plan, we work with the client to establish or transfer investment accounts so that we can manage the client's portfolio. Once the relevant accounts are under our management, we review such accounts on a regular basis and at least quarterly. We may periodically rebalance or adjust client accounts under our management. If the client experiences any significant changes to his/her financial or personal circumstances, the client must notify us so that we can consider such information in managing the client's investments.

Investment and Wealth Management Services Wrap Fee Program Fee Schedule

Our maximum advisory fee is based on the market value of the assets under management and is calculated as follows:

Account Value	Maximum Annual Advisory Fee
$0 and Above	2.00%

The annual fee is prorated and charged quarterly, in advance, based upon the market value of the assets being managed by Conscious Capital on the last trading day of the previous billing period.

The annual fees are negotiable, pro-rated, and paid in advance on a quarterly basis. The advisory fee may be tiered fee and is calculated by assessing the percentage rates using a predefined level of assets disclosed in the Advisory Agreement. No increase in the annual fee shall be effective without agreement from the client by signing a new agreement or amendment to their current advisory agreement.

Advisory fees are directly debited from client accounts, or clients may choose to pay by check. Accounts initiated or terminated during a calendar quarter will be charged a pro-rated fee based on the amount of time remaining in the billing period. An account may be terminated with written notice at least 15 calendar days in advance. Upon termination of the account, any unearned fee will be refunded to the client on a prorated basis.

Additionally, for asset management services the Firm provides with respect to certain client holdings (e.g., held-away assets, accommodation accounts, alternative investments, etc.), Conscious Capital may negotiate a fee rate that differs, though will not exceed, the range set forth above.

Additional bundled Service Cost Considerations

A wrap fee program allows our clients to pay a specified fee for investment advisory services and the execution of transactions. The advisory services may include portfolio management and the fee is not based directly upon transactions in your account. Your fee is bundled with our costs for executing transactions in your account(s). This results in a higher advisory fee to you. We do not charge our clients higher advisory fees based on their trading activity, but you should be aware that we may have an incentive to limit our trading activities in your account(s) in the event that we are charged for executed trades. However, in most cases, we pay an asset-based custodial fee that does not vary with trading activity. By participating in a wrap fee program, you may end up paying more or less than you would through a non-wrap fee program where a lower advisory fee is charged, but trade execution costs are passed directly through to you by the executing broker.

Additional Expenses Not Included in the Wrap Program Fee

You may pay custodial fees, charges imposed directly by a mutual fund, index fund, or exchange traded fund which shall be disclosed in the fund's prospectus (e.g., fund management fees and other fund expenses), mark-ups and mark-downs, spreads paid to market makers, wire transfer fees and other fees and taxes on brokerage accounts and securities transactions. These fees are not included within the wrap-fee you are charged by our firm.

We may invest clients in No Transaction Fee (NTF) funds when available. The NTF funds do not pay the custodian a ticket charge, unlike a regular fund, however it does incur a higher expense ratio than normal funds. Because we offer our advisory services under a wrap program, where we pay all ticket charges incurred, we have a financial interest to minimize these charges. However, this does not apply in most cases, as we generally pay an asset-based custodial fee for trading services for our clients.

Compensation

Our investment advisory representatives receive a portion of the advisory fee that you pay us, either directly as a percentage of your overall fee or as their salary from our firm. In cases where our investment advisory representatives are paid a percentage of your overall advisory fee, this may create an incentive to recommend that you participate in a wrap fee program rather than a non-wrap fee program (where you would pay for trade execution costs) or brokerage account where commissions are charged. This is because, in some cases, we may stand to earn more compensation from advisory fees paid to us through a wrap fee program arrangement if your account is not actively traded.

Item 5: Account Requirements and Types of Clients

Conscious Capital offers services to individuals, retirement plans (including pension, profit sharing plans, defined benefit plans and defined contribution plans), trusts, estates, charitable organizations, corporations and business entities.

We do not have a minimum account size requirement.

Item 6: Portfolio Manager Selection and Evaluation

Outside Portfolio Managers

We may also refer clients to third-party investment advisers (“outside managers”). Our analysis of outside managers involves the examination of the experience, expertise, investment philosophies, and past performance of the outside managers in an attempt to determine if that manager has demonstrated an ability to invest over a period of time and in different economic conditions. We monitor the manager’s underlying holdings, strategies, concentrations and leverage as part of our overall periodic risk assessment. Additionally, as part of our due-diligence process, we survey the manager’s compliance and business enterprise risks. A risk of investing with an outside manager who has been successful in the past is that he/she may not be able to replicate that success in the future. In addition, as we do not control the underlying investments in an outside manager’s portfolio, there is also a risk that a manager may deviate from the stated investment mandate or strategy of the portfolio, making it a less suitable investment for our clients. Moreover, as we do not control the manager’s daily business and compliance operations, we may be unaware of the lack of internal controls necessary to prevent business, regulatory, or reputational deficiencies.

Conscious Capital, LLC Portfolio Managers

Our firm and its related person, Derek T. Tharp, act as portfolio manager for the wrap fee program previously described in this Wrap Fee Program Brochure. This may create a conflict of interest in that other investment advisory firms may charge the same or lower fees than our firm for similar services. Our related person portfolio managers are not subject to the same selection and review as outside portfolio managers that participate in the wrap fee program.

Advisory Business

See Item 4 of this Wrap Fee Program Brochure for information about our wrap fee advisory programs.

Individual Tailoring of Advice to Clients

We offer individualized investment advice to clients utilizing our Asset Management and Comprehensive Portfolio Management services.

Ability of Clients to Impose Restrictions on Investing in Certain Securities or Types of Securities

We do allow clients to impose reasonable restrictions on investing in certain securities or types of securities.

Participation in Wrap Fee Programs

Our wrap fee and non-wrap fee accounts are managed on an individualized basis according to the client's investment objectives, financial goals, risk tolerance, etc. We do not manage wrap fee accounts in a different fashion than non-wrap fee accounts.

Performance-based fees and side-by-side management

We do not charge performance-based fees.

Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

Conscious Capital primarily employs fundamental and technical analysis as well as Modern Portfolio Theory ("MPT") methods in developing investment strategies for clients. Research and analysis is used or developed by Conscious Capital is derived from numerous sources, including third-party research materials and analytical software. Fundamental analysis involves an evaluation of the fundamental financial condition and competitive position of a particular fund or issuer. For Conscious Capital, this process typically involves an analysis of an issuer's management team, investment strategies, style drift, past performance, reputation and financial strength in relation to the asset class concentrations and risk exposures of the Firm's model asset allocations. A substantial risk in relying upon fundamental analysis is that while the overall health and position of a company may be good, evolving market conditions may negatively impact the security.

Technical analysis involves the examination of past market data rather than specific issuer information in determining the recommendations made to clients. Technical analysis may involve the use of mathematical based indicators and charts, such as moving averages and price correlations, to identify market patterns and trends which may be based on investor sentiment rather than the fundamentals of the company. A substantial risk in relying upon technical analysis is that spotting historical trends may not help to predict such trends in the future. Even if the trend will eventually reoccur, there is no guarantee that Conscious Capital will be able to accurately predict such a reoccurrence.

Modern Portfolio Theory (“MPT”) is a mathematical based investment discipline that seeks to quantify expected portfolio returns in relation to corresponding portfolio risk. The basic premise of MPT is that the risk of a particular holding is to be assessed by comparing its price variations against those of the market portfolio. However, MPT disregards certain investment considerations and is based on a series of assumptions that may not necessarily reflect actual market conditions. As such, the factors for which MPT does not account (e.g., tax implications, regulatory constraints and brokerage costs) may negate the upside or add to the actual risk of a particular allocation. Nevertheless, Conscious Capital’s investment process is structured in such a way to integrate those assumptions and real life considerations for which MPT analytics do not account.

Furthermore, one limitation of technical analysis is that it requires price movement data, which can translate into price trends sufficient to dictate a market entry or exit decision. In a trendless or erratic market, a technical method may fail to identify trends requiring action. In addition, technical methods may overreact to minor price movements, establishing positions contrary to overall price trends, which may result in losses. Finally, a technical trading method may under perform other trading methods when fundamental factors dominate price moves within a given market.

General Investment Strategies

Conscious Capital generally employs a long-term and broadly diversified investment strategy for its clients, as consistent with their financial goals, return objectives, risk tolerance, time horizon, tax situation, liquidity needs, legal considerations, and any other relevant factors. Conscious Capital will typically hold all or a portion of a security for more than a year but may hold for shorter periods for the purpose of rebalancing a portfolio or meeting the cash needs of clients. At times, Conscious Capital may also buy and sell positions that are more short-term in nature, depending on the goals of the client and/or the fundamentals and / or technical of the security, sector or asset class.

Conscious Capital typically uses a long-term strategic asset allocation for managing assets. In some cases, depending on the client, Conscious Capital may utilize a core-satellite approach to managing assets, which involves developing long-term strategic asset allocations that may include an allocation to tactical asset allocation (TAA) satellite. These expectations are derived from historical market data and fundamental and technical analysis. These strategic and tactical allocations determine the combined allocations to the various asset classes in the core and satellite portions of the portfolio.

In implementing the core portion of a portfolio Conscious Capital generally relies on individual securities or lower cost mutual funds and exchange traded funds that are intended to track the returns of indexes and/or fundamental/enhanced index funds that has a high correlation with an index but also deviates from that index in some of its holdings with the goal of enhanced risk-adjusted returns (examples: Dimensional Fund Advisors). Conscious Capital may also utilize strategies, such as equal weighting of individual securities that attempt to capture market returns in different manner than more traditional index approaches, such as market capitalization weighting. The satellite portion of the portfolio is managed according to an approach that is consistent with a client's goals and objectives.

Occasionally the Firm will utilize options where a client has a concentrated position. Specifically, the Firm may sell covered calls for the generation of income or purchase puts for hedging the concentrated position.

Conscious Capital Socially Conscious Investment Strategies

Conscious Capital may utilize various socially conscious investment approaches if a client desires. Conscious Capital may construct portfolios that utilize mutual funds and ETFs that incorporate socially conscious principles into their investment process. These portfolios may sometimes also be customized to reflect the personal values of each individual, family, or organization. This allows the Firm's clients to invest in a way that aligns with their values. Conscious Capital may rely on mutual funds and ETFs that incorporate Environmental, Social and Governance ("ESG") research as well as positive and negative screens related to specific business practices to determine the quality of an investment on values-based merits.

Additionally, Conscious Capital may construct portfolios of individual securities in order to provide clients with a greater degree of control over the socially conscious strategies they are utilizing. Conscious Capital relies on third-party research when constructing portfolios of individual securities with socially conscious considerations. Conscious Capital generally aims to incorporate strategies in a passive and diversified manner. Conscious Capital will not actively monitor all individual security holdings but will instead focus on a group of individual securities passively managed and aimed at achieving a high correlation with some underlying index. Individual securities may be equally weighted within a particular asset class of a portfolio. Equally weighting securities could result in higher turnover relative to other passive strategies as securities are rebalanced or added/removed from the portfolio.

Material Risks Involved

All investing strategies we offer involve risk and may result in a loss of your original investment which you should be prepared to bear. Many of these risks apply equally to stocks, bonds, commodities and any other investment or security. Material risks associated with our investment strategies are listed below.

Market Risk: Market risk involves the possibility that an investment's current market value will fall because of a general market decline, reducing the value of the investment regardless of the operational success of the issuer's operations or its financial condition.

Strategy Risk: The Adviser's investment strategies and/or investment techniques may not work as intended.

Socially Conscious Investing: If you request your portfolio to be invested according to socially conscious principles, you should note that returns on investments of this type may be limited and because of this limitation you may not be able to be as well diversified among various asset classes.

The number of publicly traded companies that meet socially conscious investment parameters is also limited, and due to this limitation, there is a probability of similarity or overlap of holdings, especially among socially conscious mutual funds or ETFs. Therefore, there could be a more pronounced positive or negative impact on a socially conscious portfolio, which could be more volatile than a fully diversified portfolio.

Small and Medium Cap Company Risk: Securities of companies with small and medium market capitalizations are often more volatile and less liquid than investments in larger companies. Small and medium cap companies may face a greater risk of business failure, which could increase the volatility of the client's portfolio.

Turnover Risk: At times, the strategy may have a portfolio turnover rate that is higher than other strategies. A high portfolio turnover would result in correspondingly greater brokerage commission expenses and may result in the distribution of additional capital gains for tax purposes. These factors may negatively affect the account's performance.

Limited markets: Certain securities may be less liquid (harder to sell or buy) and their prices may at times be more volatile than at other times. Under certain market conditions we may be unable to sell or liquidate investments at prices we consider reasonable or favorable or find buyers at any price.

Concentration Risk: Certain investment strategies focus on particular asset-classes, industries, sectors or types of investment. From time to time these strategies may be subject to greater risks of adverse developments in such areas of focus than a strategy that is more broadly diversified across a wider variety of investments.

Interest Rate Risk: Bond (fixed income) prices generally fall when interest rates rise, and the value may fall below par value or the principal investment. The opposite is also generally true: bond prices generally rise when interest rates fall. In general, fixed income securities with longer maturities are more sensitive to these price changes. Most other investments are also sensitive to the level and direction of interest rates.

Legal or Legislative Risk: Legislative changes or Court rulings may impact the value of investments, or the securities' claim on the issuer's assets and finances.

Inflation: Inflation may erode the buying-power of your investment portfolio, even if the dollar value of your investments remains the same.

Independent Manager Risk. Conscious Capital may select certain Independent Managers to manage a portion of its clients' assets. In these situations, Conscious Capital continues to conduct ongoing due diligence of such managers, but such recommendations rely to a great extent on the Independent Managers' ability to successfully implement their investment strategies. In addition, Conscious Capital generally may not have the ability to supervise the Independent Managers on a day-to-day basis.

Risks Associated with Securities

Apart from the general risks outlined above which apply to all types of investments, specific securities may have other risks.

Common stocks may go up and down in price quite dramatically, and in the event of an issuer's bankruptcy or restructuring could lose all value. A slower-growth or recessionary economic environment could have an adverse effect on the price of all stocks.

Corporate Bonds are debt securities to borrow money. Generally, issuers pay investors periodic interest and repay the amount borrowed either periodically during the life of the security and/or at maturity. Alternatively, investors can purchase other debt securities, such as zero coupon bonds, which do not pay current interest, but rather are priced at a discount from their face values and their values accrete over time to face value at maturity. The market prices of debt securities fluctuate depending on such factors as interest rates, credit quality, and maturity. In general, market prices of debt securities decline when interest rates rise and increase when interest rates fall. The longer the time to a bond's maturity, the greater its interest rate risk.

Municipal Bonds are debt obligations generally issued to obtain funds for various public purposes, including the construction of public facilities. Municipal bonds pay a lower rate of return than most other types of bonds. However, because of a municipal bond's tax-favored status, investors should compare the relative after-tax return to the after-tax return of other bonds, depending on the investor's tax bracket. Investing in municipal bonds carries the same general risks as investing in bonds in general. Those risks include interest rate risk, reinvestment risk, inflation risk, market risk, call or redemption risk, credit risk, and liquidity and valuation risk.

Options and other derivatives carry many unique risks, including time-sensitivity, and can result in the complete loss of principal. While covered call writing does provide a partial hedge to the stock against which the call is written, the hedge is limited to the amount of cash flow received when writing the option. When selling covered calls, there is a risk the underlying position may be called away at a price lower than the current market price.

Exchange Traded Funds prices may vary significantly from the Net Asset Value due to market conditions. Certain Exchange Traded Funds may not track underlying benchmarks as expected.

Investment Companies Risk. When a client invests in open end mutual funds or ETFs, the client indirectly bears its proportionate share of any fees and expenses payable directly by those funds. Therefore, the client will incur higher expenses, many of which may be duplicate. In addition, the client's overall portfolio may be affected by losses of an underlying fund and the level of risk arising from the investment practices of an underlying fund (such as the use of derivatives). ETFs are also subject to the following risks: (i) an ETF's shares may trade at a market price that is above or below their net asset value; (ii) the ETF may employ an investment strategy that utilizes high leverage ratios; or (iii) trading of an ETF's shares may be halted if the listing exchange's officials deem such action appropriate, the shares are de-listed from the exchange, or the activation of market-wide “circuit breakers” (which are tied to large decreases in stock prices) halts stock trading generally. The Adviser has no control over the risks taken by the underlying funds in which clients invest.

Voting Client Securities

We do not vote Client proxies. Therefore, Clients maintain exclusive responsibility for: (1) voting proxies, and (2) acting on corporate actions pertaining to the Client’s investment assets. The Client shall instruct the Client’s qualified custodian to forward to the Client copies of all proxies and shareholder communications relating to the Client’s investment assets. If the client would like our opinion on a particular proxy vote, they may contact us at the number listed on the cover of this brochure.

In most cases, you will receive proxy materials directly from the account custodian. However, in the event we were to receive any written or electronic proxy materials, we would forward them directly to you by mail, unless you have authorized our firm to contact you by electronic mail, in which case, we would forward you any electronic solicitation to vote proxies.
